transaction of the night before in all its bearings. While there were those who believed in the justness of the law which presumes a man innocent until he is proven guilty, and thought it best to make haste slowly in attempting to fasten the guilt upon any who have hitherto conducted themselves as honorable and honest citizens, many others were very free to express themselves as opposed to any tardiness in the matter, and as holding to the opinion that the circumstantial evidence alone that has been developed is sufficent to warrant the arrest of the parties who may be suspected of complicity in the attempt to destroy the books.

All three of the gentlemen were present, and after some consultation they agreed that the Mayor should deposit the damaged books in a secure safe until such time as they may be needed by the committee which may be appointed by Council to investigate the affair. In the mean time the Secretary of the Gas Works is to be supplied with books in which to temporarily keep his records and accounts. His Honor accordingly had the books taken to the Exchange Bank and deposited in the safe,

SECRETARY MAXWELL'S STATEMENT. As Mr. John Maxwell, the Secretary of the Gas Works, thinks the reports of the morning papers concerning the fire have placed him in an equivocal position, we take pleasure in giving his statement to our readers this morning. Mr. Maxwell says he was at the gas office Sunday morning, and went home just as the churches were out. As he was going out of the front door of the office, he spoke to Mr. Mortimer Pollock and daughter, who were passing. And here, he said, might be explained the mystery concerning the mode of outrance. It takes two turns of the key to lock the door, and I might have forgotten, while talking to Mr. P., to have attended to this, and left the door unlocked. From the office I went into Bocking's drugstore, and Bocking showed me the letter in the Sanday Leader in regard to the gas business, and we talked a little while on that subject. When I went home in the afternoon I went to King's residence and staid awhile. After support, in company with my daughter, I again went down and staid until near o celock, when I went home. I heard the alarm of fire before I went to bed. When As Mr. John Maxwell, the Secretary of o'clock, when I went home. I heard the alarm of fire before I went to bed. When King came to my house I was in bed. He told me the result of the fire, and went told me the result of the fire, and went away. I did not, in view of the circumstances surrounding it, think or deem it nepessary to go down street, nor did I go down until this norming.

Upon being asked if the loss of the books burned would interfere with an investigation of the affinire of the company, Mr. Maxwell said that everything was ready for the fullest investigation that could be given. The vonchers, &c., were still at hand and comatible at the proper time. He was surprised at the selection made of the books for destruction, as the most valuable ones were left intact and not topiched by the incendiary. It was, he throught, after the newspaper articles which had been published, a plan to injure him by burning the ones they did, as they contained the last month's business. It looked to him like a conspiracy to individual services and the needs to receive the newspaper.

THEAW

We are surprised to see so many still suffering with neuralgia and Rhoumantism, when they can be cured. We know the feeling which exists among very many—"that any medicine which is advertised must be a humbug." This may be true in some cases, but when we know of a remedy which has become so popular as Lawson's Carative. and we have such conclusive evidence of the good it has accomplished, it is more than folly not to make a trial of it, and satisfy yourselves that all the proprietors claim for it is true. In such diseases as Rhoumatian, Neuralgia, Sedatica, Hesdache, Sore Throat, Laune Back, and Toothache, we can safely say that no remedy, I cither in physician's prescription or in proprietary form, has effected more cures than Lowson's Curalive.

"Totally Different from all Others."

The "London Hair Color Restorer" is the most delightful article ever introduced to the American people, and is totally different from all other Hair Restorers, being entirely free from all impure ingredients that render many other articles for the hair obnoxious. Where Isaliness, or falling of the hair exists, or prematurely grayness, from sickness, or other causes, its use will restore the natural youthful color, and cause a healthy growth, cleaning the scalp from all impurities, dandruff, dec. at the same time a most pleasing and lasting hair dressing, fragrantly perfumed, rendering the hair soft and pliable, making it an indispensable article in every toilet.

Dec. Swayne & Son.—Respected friends: I have the pleasure to inform you that a lady of my acquaintance, Mrs. Miller, is delighted with the success of your "London Hair Color Restorer". Her hair was falling rapidly, and quite gray. The color has been restored, the falling off entirely stopped, and a new growth of hair is the result.
